1. On 22 and 23 March and 30 April 1952, Braila (R 55/Z 13) was occupied by Soviet troops. A two-story building, which was located in a dead end street south of Strada Republicii, was guarded by a Soviet sentry. About 20 Soviet officers were seen entering and leaving the installation. They had red-bordered black collar patches and tank insignia on their coats. Soviet soldiers were repeatedly seen in the streets.

The installation also quartered numerous soldiers with red unbordered epaulets, red collar patches and red-banded service caps. Many soldiers had a brass letter E on their epaulets. The officers had red epaulets with golden longitudinal stripes and golden stars. A radio station was near the cemetery near Strada Cicerone. Two iron trellis masts about 35 meters high and about 60 meters apart were seen. They were guarded by two Rumanian sentries. (3)

4. On 9 April 1952, two officers with blue collar patches and blue service caps with red band were seen in Turnul Magurele (R 33/34/G 66).

6. On 22 and 23 March and 30 April 1952, Braila was also occupied by Rumanian troops. A three-story barracks installation, about 100 meters from the quay on the south side of Strada Imperatul Traian, was occupied by soldiers wearing black epaulets. Some of them wore the insignia of a crossed spade and hammer on their epaulets. Diagonally across from this installation was a two-story building which was occupied by soldiers wearing red epaulets. Soldiers wearing black epaulets were located in a two-story building on a street which paralleled Strada Imperatul Traian on the south. (6)
